EFP (European Film Promotion) is the international network of film institutions from 37 European countries, which supports European cinema and professionals in strengthening their current market presence as well as in accessing new territories, and at the same time, improving their international competitiveness, distribution and media presence worldwide. We have joined forces throughout Europe because we are deeply convinced of the power that comes from collaboration and passion for a shared vision: to increase the diversity and spirit of European films and talents around the world.

This guide portrays profiles of Europe's most prolific world sales companies, which are 'associated' with EFP via Film Sales Support (FSS).

Film Sales Support (FSS) is a programme for European world sales companies. It is designed to help promote and sell European films outside Europe and offers financial support to European world sales companies for their marketing and sales campaigns of European films to countries outside of Europe.

FSS is backed by Creative Europe MEDIA, our longstanding partner, the Nordisk Film & TV Fond, and by the member institutes German Films and the Instituto de la Cinematografía de las Artes Audiovisuales (Spain).

Alpha Violet

France

Virginie Devesa and Keiko Funato met together while working for Celluloid Dreams in 2000. They share the same passion for working with filmmakers/producers and conveying their films toward the audience. They both have many different experiences in the film industry, which led towards the foundation of their own sales company, Alpha Violet in 2011. With this label, they wish to offer a transparent way to represent their films worldwide and to be efficient for each of the film they work on.

Square Eyes

Austria

Square Eyes is a sales company based in Vienna, that helps outstanding non-mainstream films find the audience and recognition they deserve. We specialise in representing bold, author-driven features and shorts, that are willing to take narrative and aesthetic risks. We collaborate closely with filmmakers to devise bespoke festival distribution and sales strategies. By limiting our portfolio, we ensure that each film we work with receives the attention it needs to reach its fullest potential.

The background is a solid orange color. It features several overlapping circles and thin, curved lines in a lighter shade of orange. One large circle is positioned in the upper left, and another is partially visible at the bottom. Thin, sweeping lines arc across the composition, creating a sense of movement and depth.
